The following changes in regulations were made effective May 28, 1991.

80.1(a) Industrial arts was deleted and replaced by technology education as a special subject. The requirements for a certificate in technology education is the same as industrial arts. A person certified in industrial arts can teach technology education. If a teacher certified in industrial arts wants a certificate in technology education, an application for certificate, required fee, and the two hour course in child abuse is required.
